

Driving to Download? Use this to plan your travel

We can't wait to welcome you to Liquid Death presents Download XXI. We've been working closely with local authorities to develop this travel plan and kindly ask that you follow guidance below to get everyone on site as quick as we can.

This guide covers:

- Which car park to head to based on where you're camping
- What directions to follow, depending on where you're coming from
- When car parks open
- Which car park you should use based on ticket type

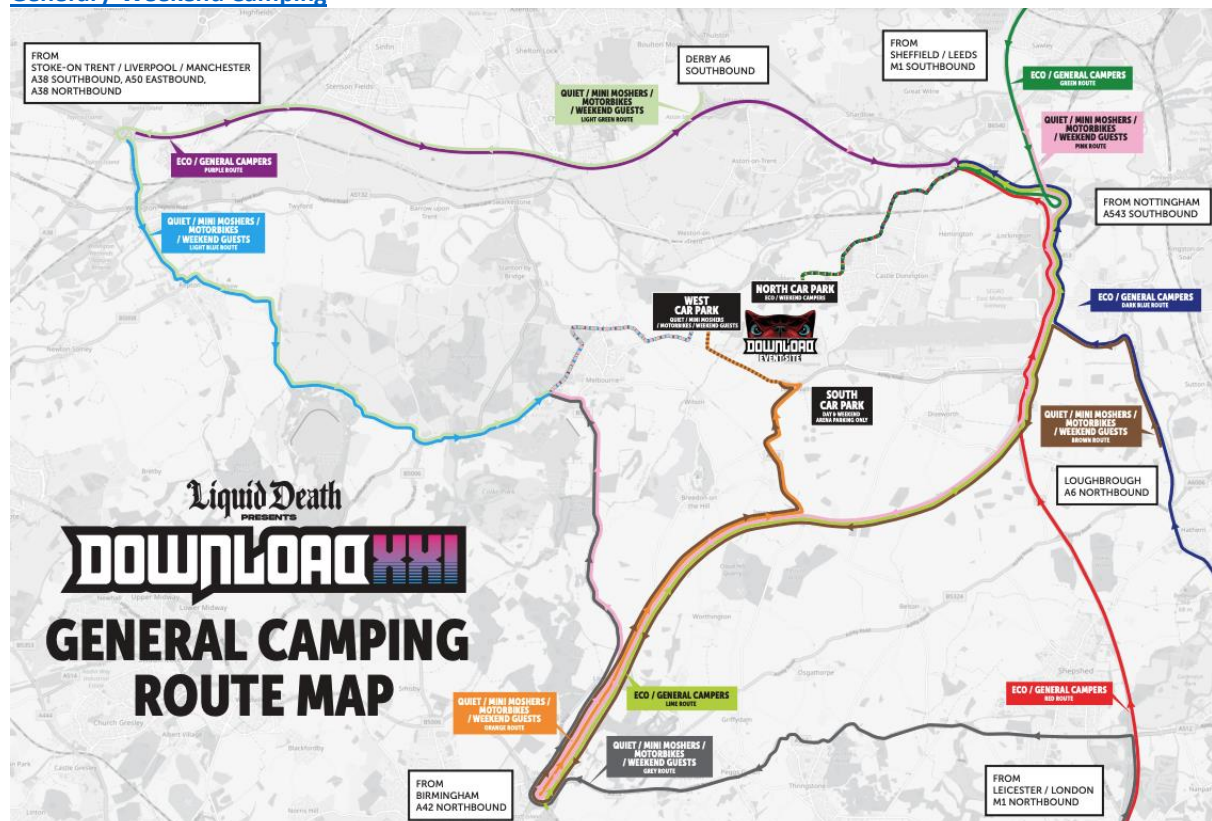

Remember there may be road closures, roadworks or congestion that isn't picked up by Sat Navs so please follow event signage as you near the festival. Please be aware there are pre-existing roadworks on the M1 which are causing up to 1-hour delays on a normal day (when travelling north)

For real time updates, follow our travel updates page and National Highways updates and download our app.

Which route should I follow?

- Please find your colour-coded route on the local area map below – designated by your ticket type and the direction that you are coming from.
- You can then find in the table underneath a link which will take you to the starting point of the colour-coded route on the map.
- Once you get to your colour coded route start point, please then follow the roadside event signage based on your ticket type, pointing to Download Festival.
- It is important that you follow the festival signage at this point and don't attempt to use alternative routes or use alternative Sat Nav destination (for general camping follow 'Weekend Camping')
